Participating in a lottery Paying money or money's worth to participate in arrangements, schemes or competitions for the distribution of prizes, which depend on an element of chance.

The general approach taken by the Singapore government is that gambling is prohibited unless licensed or exempted, whether it is conducted physically or online.

Thus, even if members of the same family gather to gamble at a funeral held in a void deck, such an activity would technically be illegal as a void deck is a public place.

This is in part due to the nature of online gambling making it difficult to asc
