In a lawsuit filed Wednesday in state Superior Court in Middlesex County, Antar accuses the defendants of fraud, racketeering and other transgressions.

The Borgata and MGM declined comment through a spokesman.

"When I look at what I did, I'm sick about it.

In his lawsuit, Antar claims he alerted numerous employees and officials with the gambling companies to the fact that there was a serious, recurring problem with disconnections, but that they knowingly kept malfunctioning games available to the public because they were too profitable to take down.

He says his complaints were made to local supervisors and VIP hosts, an online complaint portal, and even to the president of the casino and the CEO of its parent company.

The suit also references an Oct.

Antar, the suit asserted, had no choice but to agree.

He said he is not currently gambling, having made his last bet on Feb.
